We are very excited to launch William Paterson Academy of Music, a music extension program of the Music and Continuing Education Departments at William Paterson University.

Welcoming young musicians of all ages, skill levels, instrument preferences, and economic backgrounds, William Paterson Academy of Music provides focused one-on-one lessons in a musical environment close to you. In addition, the music school offers a wide range of classes and performing ensembles to engage every student, from the beginner to young maestros, regardless of age. Some classes are intended as an introduction to music and require no previous experience while others are designed to complement private instruction.

Our school’s faculty and staff are quite remarkable. Our teachers provide fine instruction in both private and group formats, and William Paterson Academy of Music provides many opportunities to learn to play in a variety of different musical styles and in ensembles. Our faculty, staff, board, students and parents enjoy a musical community with shared values. We believe music should be accessible to all.

We encourage you to join our special musical community both at our school at 300 Pompton Rd in Wayne, NJ and on our Web site. Come to a concert. Take private lessons. Take one of our classes. Come be a part of the special William Paterson Academy of Music experience!

Sincerely,

Dr. Iris Perry
Executive Director, William Paterson Academy of Music
